

Directors of Religious Education (DRE)

Civilians Making a Difference

- Army DREs are civilian professionals who work in support of the U.S. Army Chaplaincy to build spiritual readiness to deploy fight and win our Nation's wars. DREs have been educated and trained in religious education and faith formation processes which allows them to assist Chaplains to fulfill their responsibilities to provide relevant, transformative, quality, religious education programs for Soldiers and Family members. They serve as Subject Matter Experts (SMEs) in religious education and youth ministry, providing guidance, direction, and advice to Chaplains, Families, volunteers, civilians, contractors and a variety of other individuals from diverse faith groups.
